THE LAUGHING PLACE

A French cousin in the United States was stopped (during a other wedding and every other time) The Frenchman, not fully understanding what it was all about, asked one of the other guests to explain what this other wedding meant.

"This couple have lived together for twenty-five years," said the man.

"Ah!" exclaimed the Frenchman. "And now to marry her. Bravo!"

Overheard at a party. "They make a perfect couple. He's a jill and she's a headache."

"It's curious. Where are you going?"
"Too desperate with you. You should know and there's no way to address a lady whose husband is out of town and who lives at 1815 Westmore—telephone—1-7643."

Couples always make fun of marriage, but it has been proven that married life is healthy. This nation shows that single people die much more quickly than married folks. Therefore, if you are looking for a long, slow death—get married.

"Enough about me, let's talk about you for awhile."

"My partner!" said the man in the door. "This would you care to contribute something to the House for Maynard Abernethy?"

"You bet," replied Mrs. Murphy promptly. "Come back about five this evening and you can have Murphy."

The artist had just loaned his pretty model. She was apart from his business until he assured her she was the first model he had ever loaned in his life.

"How many models did you have before me?" she asked wisely.

"Four," he answered. "An apple, two oranges and a flower pot."

"THEY'RE OFF"

Building a gambling den, two policemen found two men sitting around a table, apparently playing big poker. "Didn't you know poker playing is against the law," a sergeant said.

"In answer, Sirs," the first man said, "I just sat down to talk."

"You were gambling," the sergeant accused the second man. "Oh, Sirs! I'm a plumber here to fix a leaky faucet."

"And you were playing, too," the third man was told. "Not me, Sirs! I'm just waiting for a fix."

The police started at the fourth man—who was holding a deck of cards. "Well, at least you're playing cards!"

"No," he asked. "With who?"

NEW TEACHER IN TOWN

NEW FACE

Angel-faced, spun-sugar blonde Sophie Hardy left a job as an English professor to become the Marilyn Monroe of the French cinema. A collector of 1920 hats, poodle dogs and American swing records, this rare fillet of a Gallic doll (36-23-35) says: "I had a real feeling for teaching. Sometimes now I recite poetry to a man and I can see from the wild look in his eyes that he thinks of me as being extremely scholarly."
